JerseyNaps show your team spirit

Marsha Roth

There's more to college football than just throwing the pigskin around. Like tailgating and parties. So set your table with JerseyNaps and let the fun begin.

JerseyNaps are napkins with enough personality for a whole football team. Shaped like a jersey and folded into a 4-by-7-inch shape, the two-ply napkins unfold to 11½ by 13 inches.

They are made in Wisconsin of 100 percent recycled tissue paper and are printed with grade inks, making them safe as well as eco-friendly.

The napkins come in University of Louisville, University of Kentucky and Indiana University styles, or see other school teams at www.jerseyhaps.com.

When Kentucky Derby time rolls around, you can also pick up packs of JerseyNaps' official Kentucky Derby Jockey Silks napkins. A pack of eight JerseyNaps costs a little more than $3. They can be found at Ginny's Hallmark stores; Two Chicks and Co., 12121 Shelbyville Road; Complements, 2212 Holiday Manor Center; and Regalo, 980 Barret Ave.; and in the Galt House Hotel & Suites.
